re: PDORA '84

The first PDORA (Nov. '83) is over and was a success. $340.00 were raised and dispatched to the custodians. It is, however, now time to think about the future and PDORA '84.

The first step, as always, is to ask for donations, and this is the form that you could use to donate your items to the PDORA. You can donate just about anything. Last time, game openings, old 'zines, games, Dippy memorabilia and even foodstuffs were auctioned off. So, please, donate what you can!

DEADLINE -
4 15

The deadline for donations to PDORA '84 will be: MARCH 17, 1984.

As is usual, the donator pays for the postage. However, if you can't pick up the tab, along with the estimated value/minimum bid acceptable, include a postage fee, ie. "plus $1.50 postage."

If you give a minimum bid, the item won't be auctioned off unless a bid equal to or greater than the price you set is sent in. With an estimated value, the item could go for less.

As always, don't send your items donated to me. You hold on to them. After all the bids are in, I'll write you to tell you who to send the item to.

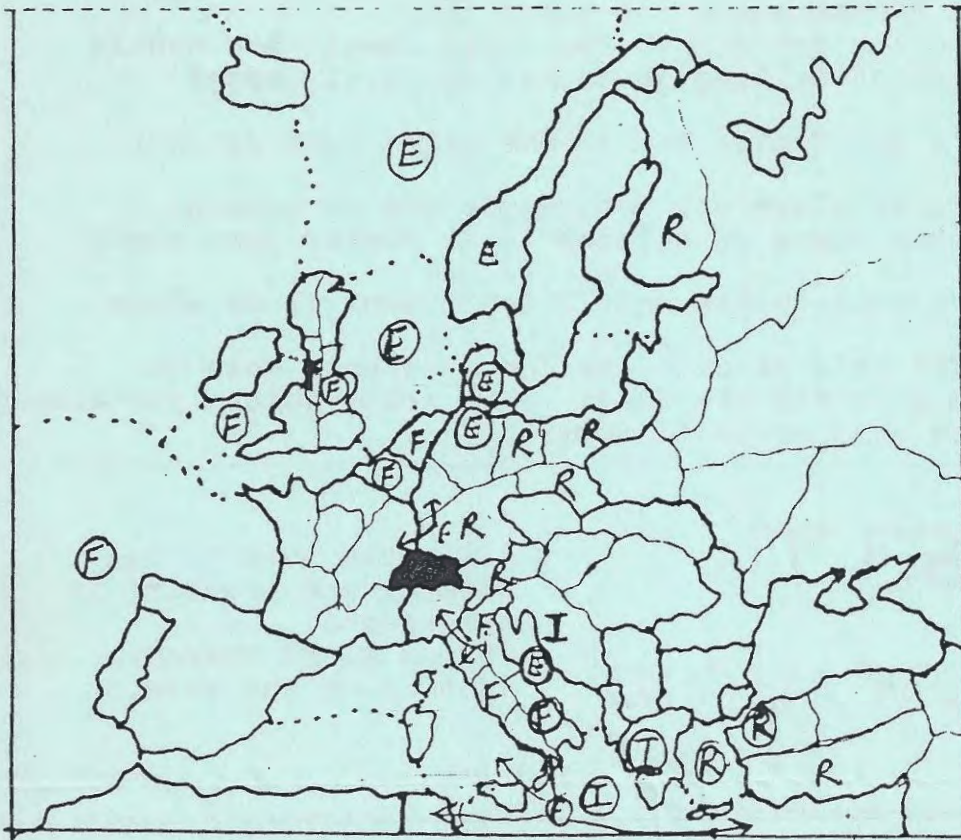

PDORA would like to thank all those who donated and all those who bid in PDORA '83. The monies, I'm sure, were appreciated by all.

Well, stay tuned to this 'zine for PDORA '84 reports.

Hail to the Chief.....

Well, it looks as though it's either Hart or Mondale for the Democrats. Can you imagine having a president named HART? I'm sure Pat would immediately claim to be a long lost relative and demand a patronage job in Washington.

I'm registered republican so I really don't have much of a choice in Pennsylvania's primary on April 10th. I'll probably be voting for Reagan again in November -- however, that could change depending on -- no, I think it'll be Reagan again. It's not that I'm a fanatical Reaganite like the idiot Highfield, but I do like some of his positions. I haven't seen too much I like in Mondale or Hart -- unless they make a few turn-arounds on a few issues -- which I doubt.

Who do you like?

TRENTINO END GAME STATEMENT

England -- Dale Bakken

For me, the NMRs pretty much dictated what I'd be doing. France left himself wide open when he didn't build in 1901. And when I went F Nth-Ska in Fall '01 myself, it gave me a big jump on Russia.

From there I had to prove my superiority by gaining the Mid-Atlantic before Italy did. My toughest diplomacy was to get Italy to believe me when I offered to stab Germany. Then when A/H started NMRing also, it was just too far for Tom to see my point of view.

I managed to keep Turkey from trying to hit me by promising to stab Italy. I think my promises of a stab lasted two--maybe three years. I never did come through though. My sending Williams all those sexual devices and diseases kept him well occupied.

When I was finally ready to put a move on Swider, Don sent me a card saying he was ready to pack it in. I decided that I ought not to look a gift horse in the mouth and took the 2-way.

GM -- Tom Mainardi

At the start of the game, I was very excited. It was my dip game that I'd be running and it looked promising. After the first game year, however, my opinion of the game fell drastically. In the Spring of '02, 3 countries NMR'ed and I had had enough. I declared that no more standbys would be called for the game. I realize that that probably affected the game in one way or another. But it was getting out of hand. -- Molux, and Neubauer are forever barred from playing in any game in Bersaglieri....

After that low ebb of about 3 seasons, the game began to pick up again. We had 5 solid and semi-solid players and the NMRs were few. By the end of the game, I was very interested in it and thought it might have been wild watching E and I go after each other. In fact, the first orders I got from Dale for Spring '06 were, shall I say, very anti-Italian. I thought to myself, well, here it starts. But about 2 days before the deadline, revised English orders arrived along with the final "yes" for the two-way.

I'm glad it ended in a two-way. I'm sorry Don could not share in any type of win since he did stick with the game all along but that's war. Congratulations to all who stuck with the game.....

Mark: Yep.

Pat: Playboy magazine is junk?

Mark: C'mon, you only buy it for the pictures.

Pat: No I don't. I read the fantastic articles.

Mark: Such as?

Pat: Last month there was an article on creative financing by Bert Lance.

Mark: Well, one article doesn't do it.

Pat: Before that there was an article on government loans by Billy Carter.

Mark: I uh, um, still not convinced.

Pat: Let's see what's in this issue.....Ah, look at this, an article on how to win friends and influence people by Al Haig.

Mark: Wow! Can I look when you're done? Can I Pat? Can I? Huh? Can I, huh Pat?

Pat: Calm down before you have a heart attack.

Mark: I'm fine now.

Pat: Allllllright!

Mark: What is it?

Pat: My postal chess opponent resigned. I'll make expert now.

Mark: Congratulations.

Pat: Yeah, them Pennsylvanians are lousy chessplayers.

You don't mean the one from Flushing come back.....That's a big ten-four!(I don't believe this).....Why everyone's heard of the one and only Bloodsucker(The polls don't lie), I'll pass it on good buddy. Keep the sunny side up and the dirty side down. This is Red Rider down and out.....Ten-four, this is Thunderbird on the side.....See there young feller, piece a cake.

Pat: Ma Bell, eat your heart out!

Voice: Whadda you want?

Pat: You must be little Frank.

Voice: No! My name is Francine.

Pat: (A butch haircut?) Uhhh, I'm here to see your mother.

Francine: Oh!

Pat: She's expecting me.

Francine: Okay, come in.

Voice: Who are you?

Pat: I'm Pat Hart, you must be Phyllis.

Voice: No, I'm sorry, my name is Frank.

Pat: (Shoulder length hair?) Uhhh, I'm here to see your mother.

Francine: You already said that.

④ - Pat: What's that?

Frank: That's...

Francine: Pay no intention to that!

Pat: This is sure anice.....place.....

Francine: It's modern!

Pat: Oh? You don't see paneling made of large brown paper bags much(She is a baglady!).

Francine: Thanks for the compliment!

Voice: Okay guys, go to your room!

Francine & Frank: Yes ma'm.

Pat: Are you Phyllis or Kathy?

Voice: Don't be absurd, Phyllis is out collecting bags.

Pat: Hi Kathy, I finally made it.

Kathy: So I see, who are you?

Pat: Aren't you expecting me?

Kathy: No.

Pat: Didn't you get my message?

Kathy: No.

Pat: There's that sound again.

Kathy: That's just John. He snores very loudly(Move over Pearson!).

Pat: I'm Pat Hart from South Carolina.

Kathy:

Pat: I'm Austria in Emilia-Romagna.

Kathy: Gary's puppet!

Pat: Yeah, I mean no. I'm my own puppet.
